Grip Cotton Tie

State Fair of 1877, the "Arrow Tie" Being One of its Competitors. N offering to planters and merchants the Grip Tie, the following advantages are claimed for it: Simplicity of application, greater strength both of the Tie and Band, close adjustment and freedom from slip, which prevents any expansion of the bale, and the impossibility of removing the band without cut-

The importance of these advantages must be ev dent to planters, especially the greater strength the bands. Whenever the band breaks the cotton liable to be wasted or pilfered; besides, most lo freight rates on railroads and steamboats are much per bale, also drayage and storage. Hence importance of putting up heavy bales at plantationresses.

much per one, also drayage and storage. Hence the importance of putting up heavy bales at plantation presses.

The strength of the Grip Tie is from 2800 to 3000 pounds. The Arrow Tie, from 1800 to 2000 pounds. For compressing cotton bales we defy competition—and this, in the future, is to determine the merit of cotton ties, as the closer the cotton can be compressed the cheaper it can be transported from one point to another.

The recent reduction in the price of Ties was probably due to the competition of the Grip Tie. All are aware that the American Tie Company have for years had a monopoly in the Tie business. This year, however, they are only offering the Arrow Tie. This they have placed in the hands of all dealers with whom they could contract to keep no other Tie in stock, endeavoring thereby to drive out all competition. Therefore, we claim it is to the interest of all consumers of Ties to use the Grip Tie: First, because it is superior in every respect to the Arrow Tie; second, because you are assisting to throw off the shackles of a monopoly.

Order through your own merchant, or direct from us; the price in either case shall be as low as the Arrow Tie.
